

ZQZ - An Objects Auction

The ZQZ Objects Auction Catalogue

This auction will have critique as its currency and quality rather than value – its determinator.

Bids are done with critique rather than money.

Where and When?

Details of Decurators gallery in Brasilia:

<http://decurators.org> and <https://www.facebook.com/decurators>

How?

Say a person wants the skateboard screws, the rucksack and the image of “unknown” as an object they just made up and want to take home.

To get that object

1. The person will need to critique ZQZ (<http://040.5p.It>).

and

2. Convince people at the auction that the said critique is of such a quality that – in the minds of people around – merits the objects the bid-critique is for.

The decision will be done through voting.

The critique people vote for as being of most quality, will indeed receive the object/s the bid is for.

Currently, a critique of ZQZ can be done in various means and manners.

For example, a person might say something simple like:

“I think ZQZ Fails/Succeeds in addressing questions of freedom and tragedy because of XY Z reasons”.

Or even, if a person wants, without any reason..

A critique could be long, with perhaps historical links, like How zqz might connect with other road oriented art linked stuff since 2000.

In both cases of critique, the point is that you want to criticise ZQZ in a way that will convince people to vote for your critique so you can win the auction and get what the bid is for.

How to read the images, objects depicted and their names in the auction catalogue?

For example, 2 chopsticks are an object, but a person who might bid for one of them could make a new object – a single chopstick, or bid for the image itself.

When a few objects are placed in a single image because during the way between Brasilia and Rio they were kept in the same bag – do they somehow become an object?

Indeed, following the process of reviewing all that is to be auctioned, perhaps a person fancies making new objects by, for example, placing one bid for the phone and a chopstick together?

A person might fancy a name of an image, the image itself, and could also propose an alternative name – and so on – to bid for. (ie. If your bid wins, the new name will be given to a chosen image.)

In short, everything is Up for Grabs – in exchange for your critique of ZQZ
